with the aim of clarifying and formalising data sharing arrangements, to provide a framework for the Parties to share information.

Each organisation party to this agreement is the data controller for the information it holds. If one organisation shares personal data with another organisation, each remains the data controller for the information in their possession.

Objectives

The objectives of this protocol are to:

- a) Ensure that the Parties are each clear about their data protection responsibilities
- b) Promote trust between the Parties
- c) Improve service delivery to individual service users by the Parties.

Collection of information

As the data controllers, the organisations party to this agreement and involved in the process are responsible for collecting information confidentially. It is up to them as data controllers to ensure procedures are in place to notify the data subjects that their information is being shared.

Use of information

All services must take responsibility for ensuring that information, which is shared under the terms of this Protocol, will only be used for the agreed specific purpose. The Parties will not note any personal data and will treat all discussions as confidential.

Information sharing without consent

Individual agencies will have consent procedures with regard to sharing client details that we expect them to adhere to. In some circumstances information will need to be shared without the consent of the individual. This should be considered in exceptional circumstances only as per schedule three of the Data Protection Act.

Data quality

Information discovered to be inaccurate or inadequate for the purpose will be notified to the data controller. As all data controllers will be responsible for the accuracy of the data they keep, it will then be the responsibility of the respective data controller to rectify the accuracy of the data they keep.
